

general inception.

Head of Finance

General Inception is looking for its first Head of Finance to build out the General Inception financial system and team. This is an opportunity to shape the finance approach for a new category of business, the Igniter. We are creating a vertically integrated approach to new company creation with a focus on commercialization of cutting-edge technologies that will improve the lives of people around the globe. Top leadership will be looking to this person to develop robust financial reporting and to inform the financial implications of strategic decisions. There is flexibility in role and location depending on the candidate.

What we are looking to get done:

- Build out the General Inception finance system across functions and new ventures
- Maximize organization-wide capital efficiency
- Support finance infrastructure development for NewCos to drive efficient capital deployment
- Develop financial scenarios and plans, in concert with Office of CEO, to guide the enterprise
- Build out financials to support top-level board discussions for General Inception and NewCos
- Develop financial controls throughout the organization
- Participate in the budgeting process for General Inception and its NewCos

Helpful background experiences and capabilities

- Must-have: CPA and 5-10 years of experience building a finance system from the ground up in a healthcare startup or VC environment
- Strongly-preferred: 2-3 years of investment banking or private equity analyst background preferred for the FP&A and financial analytics part of the role
- Nice to have: Background in life science or medical technology (e.g., work or educational background)
- Self-starting and able to drive projects forward in periods of ambiguity with a good sense of when to move forward and fix later vs. checking-in for guidance
- Experience partnering with executive leadership to develop financial plans and scenarios
- Experience in Federal and State tax return preparation.

We believe this role is exciting to someone who:

- Believes in the mission of General Inception to industrialize the process of taking ground-breaking innovation from the lab to the marketplace
- Is looking to put their fingerprints on building a Finance system and approach from scratch
- Enjoys working across multiple areas of finance and innovating on the best processes
- Is motivated by significant equity compensation
- Enjoys working with very motivated, high-performing team